UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT. The Case of Miner, the Alleged O Counter

feiter. Befere Judge Woodruff, In the United States Circuit Court yesterday Dis-rict attorney Davis asked for towe to move the rial of J. D. Minor, who is charged with countersting, on some day early next week. He said he be Court; but this was a case of interest and im-ment, but this was a case of interest and importance both to the accused and to the government, and it was not at all unreasonable on his part to ask that there be a speedy trial.

Rx-Judge FullEcton, counsel for Minor, said he did not think he could be ready for trial at the time named by the District Attorney, as important witnessed by the District Attorney, as important witnessed to the defence were out of the State and it would require a considerable time to secure their attendance. The Court, no doubt, would fix a reasonable time within which the defending should faste his trial, so that he might have ample opportantly to prepare for the detence. He did not want to go to trial until he knew upon which of the seventeen indictments found against kinor the District Attorney meant to proceed. cen indictments found against Minor the District Margaey meant to proceed. Ar. Pavis, United States Assistant District Attorney, replied that if in December they could not try the case he would consent, on the part of the government, that a notic prosequé be entered.

The Increase in Judicial Salaries.

Before Judge Brady.

In re John K. Hackett.—In the matter of the apairing the Comptroller to pay the addition to his calary granted in a resolution passed by the Board of Supervisors it was erroneously reported that all the Judges of the city were in the same boat as to the increase of their pay by the Supervisors. The Logislature last winter passed a special act legalizing the increase by the Board of the salaries of the Superme Court Judges, the Superior Court Judges and the Judges of Common Pleas and Marine Court. Only the Recorder and City Judge were left out in the cold. This statement of the real facts in the case, as will be seen, removes any possible odium that the previous report cast upon Judge Brady of citting in judgment in a matter in which he is any way pecuniarily interested. lary granted in a resolution passed by the Board

The lease was for ten years from the year 1866, and before its execution the premises were occupied as a note. The partition walls were taken out, and the premises rested as lotts. This alteration plaintiff claimed to have been a violation of the terms of the lease, as having tended to the mjury of the premises. The evidence being in, a motion was made on the part of defendants to non-suit plaintiff on the ground that no injury had accrued to the premises; that an injury under the lease must be to the inheritance, and that the suit cannot be maintained during the term of the lease. The Results of a Fire.

Before Judge Joachimsen.

Derrickson vs. Smith & Sayre Manufacturing mpany.-The plaintiffs purchased from defendants a blower, for $335, and wishing to dispose of it again after using it a short time, offered to sell it to ndants for $200, which they refused. It was then agreed that defendants should take it, put it in order and endeavor to sell it on plaintin's account, order and endeavor to sell it on plaintiff's account, which was done, no instructions to insure being given. Defendants testified that they took the same care of and made the same care of and made the same efforts to dispose of it as of their own property. Their manufactory, however, was burned down, and all the property contained in it, including this particular blower, destroyed. The action is brought to recover the market value of the blower. The Court held that the defendants were liable only for such care as they would exercise with regard to their own property, and, having exercised such care, are not responsible to plaintiffs for the destruction of their property by fire.

The case of the contested will of Samuel A. Bet sen, the rich old bachelor, of Brownsville, Texas, who cled leaving behind him $150,000 worth of property, was continued before Surrogate Hutchings yesterday. The deceased died at the Tremont Bouse in this city, in February, 1871, leaving his wealth to his two brothers, sister and niece, Mrs. Harriet P. Leichardt. The brothers and sister now endeavor to cut out the niece from all participation in the estate, by contesting the will against her. The arst witness examined was Dr. Quigley, a professional nurse, who attended the deceased during his last lilness. He testified on behalf of the contestants,

COURT OF CENERAL SESSIONS.

Hamicide in Roosevelt Street-O'Brien Plends Gulley to Killing Charles Casey and is Sent to the State Frison by Judge Bedford-

Another Manslaushter Case.

Amstrant District Attorney Sullivan, after disposing of a few unimportant cases yesterday in the General Sessions, moved on the trial of John O'Brien, indicted for the homicide of Charles Casey on the 16th of July. It was charged that the accased, who is a young man, was in company with the deceased and others at a drinking saloon in 17 Roosevelt street, where a difficulty occurred be-tween them, and that after they reached the side-walk O'Brien stabbed Casey in the left groin with a tween them, and that after they reached the sidewalk O'Brien stabbed Casey in the left groin with a large knife.

There was no difficulty experienced in obtaining the jury, as the circumstances attending the stabbling are of nightly occurrence.

Mr. William F. Howe defended the prisoner. Daniel Crowiey, Mary Doyle, Johanna Doyle, Jeremiah Mitcheil, Edward Gillespie, Daniel Doyle, Margaret Cullen, James O'Brien and Officer Finn were the witnesses for the people. It appeared from the statements of the witnesses (except Edward Gillespie) for the prosecution that on the 15th of July last, between ten and eleven o'clock in the evening, John, Patrick and Jasper O'Brien, another man and Casey were in Doyle's liquor saloon, 17 Roosevelt street, and that while these parties were there a quarrel ensued, and they were all put out by the proprietor and barkeeper. While in the middle of the sidewalk the witness Crowley saw O'Brien, the prisoner, make a plunge at Casey, who fell on the sidewalk and died shorty afterwards.

Mr. Howk, in opening for the prisoner, stated that he would prove that the stabbing was done in self-defence. He called John Handley, David Tucker, Patrick O'Brien and John O'Brien, whose testimony was in direct conflict with the evidence given by the witnesses for the prosecution. The prisoner's statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under cath, was to the effect that while in this drinking saloon he was struck by Jasy er Statement, under

The acting District Attorney said at this stage of the trial the counsel for the prisoner intimated that he would like to withdraw his plea of not guilty and plead guilty to manslaughter in the third degree. He believed that the jury would not characterize the deed by a verdict of a higher degree, and he would therefore accept the plea.

The prisoner said he did the stabbing in self-defence, and that he was very sorry, for O'Brien had always been a friend of his.

Judge Bedford, in passing sentence, said:—O'Brien, you were indicted for murder, but the evidence would not justify a conviction of that grade of homicide. I do not believe one word of the testimosy of the witnesses for the defence, and think it was a mass of perjury. You, like all prisoners, swore to too much in your own benalf. You took the life of charies Casey under circumstances not justifying the deed. The wanton use of the knife in this community must be checked, and I think the District Attorney, in accepting the plea of manslaughter in the third degree, has extended to you all the leniency you deserve. For the future protection of law-abiding chilzens, and to teach those who wantonly and unjustifiably use dangerous weapons, I will sentence you to the highest beriod allowed by law, which is four years imprisonment in the State Prison.

I will sentence you to the highest beriod allowed by law, which is four years imprisonment in the State Prison.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

Daniel Foley, charged with the homicide of Wm.
O'Brien, was placed at the bar.

Assistant District Attorney Sullivan said—This is the same case which I attempted to move for trial last Friday, when counsel for the prisoner proposed that leave should be given to withdraw the plea of not guilty of the charge of murder and to ofter a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the third degree. I did not feel at that time disposed to accept that plea, but upon consultation with my associates and a reconsideration of the matter! have decided to recommend to your Honor that the plea be accepted. I will state briefly the nature of the case. This defendant was occupying a room adjoining the one occupied by the deceased. In the evening some verbal altercation took place and the prisoner used some expressions to the deceased which were deemed to be insuiting to him and his lamily. The deceased thereupon went into the room of the defendant and called him to account for his alleged insuits and struck him with his hand, pashed him upon the bed, followed up the assault and struck him again. Then an interposition was made by bystanders, and the parties were separated. This defendant, an old man, alleged to be over sixty years of age, complained and left very much aggrieved at having been struck, referring to the fact that he had known the father of the assailant. He went down stairs, and it was supposed that he intende! to speak to a policeman and get a warrant. The prisoner returned to the building, went up to the landing and said, "Johnny, I knew your lather; you had no right to strike ne, and if you come out I will fix you." O'Brien came out of his room and Thefe was no eye-witness as to what took Alleff, and that in the light degree could be represented in the third degree could be represented.

And that it is all the three degree could be rendered, and possibly the might be acquitted.

The Jupas said he would remand the prisoner till Thursday.

FORGERY.

Henry Meyers pleaded guilty to forgery in the third degree, he having altered a check for $53 25, drawn by Barker Bros., Philadelphia, upon Howes & Macy, of New York, to $1,500 35. The prisoner deposited it in the Oriental Savings Bank, and defrauded that institution out of the above sum. His Honor said he learned from the detective that Meyers octonged to a gang of forgers. He was sent to the State Prison for four years.

PRODELVY COURTS.

SUPREME COURT-CIRCUIT. A Transaction in Real Estate. Before Judge Gilbert.

James Levels vs. Francis Weeks and Ellen 1.

Weeks .- The plaintiff sued to recover $1,500, and alleges that in 1869 he owned a farm at Hempstead worth about $17,000, including stock, fix-tures, grain, &c. He entered into an agreement to exchange his farm with Mr. Weeks for two houses in this city, and to give a note for $500. One of the houses was situated on Marcy avenue. It was finished and inhabited by defendant and his family. The other house was not finished and was situated on Stockton street, but it was to be untshed by defendant. The price fixed upon for the second house was $6,500, but there was a mortgage upon it of $3,000, and it was estimated that it would require about $2,000 to finish it. Plaintiff also alleges that defendant agreed to have the house finished by the 1st of September, but on it appearing that the property belonged to Mrs. Weeks, plaintiff took a mortgage from her on the farm in order to secure himself. He made a mistake in leaving the mortgage to be recorded in this city instead of in hempstead, and, when defendants subsequently traced off the farm the record of the mortgage given by one of them did not appear. Plaintiff then asked them to complete their contract and finish the house in Stockton street, according to agreement, and, as they did not do so, he had the work done, and he now soes to recover $1,500, the amount for which Mrs. Weeks gave a mortgage on the farm.

On the part of the defence it is claimed that the plaintiff is not entitled to recover, as he took another house in place of the one which he claimed was not finished. The defendants further allege that the house was substantially finished. Case on upon for the second house was $6,500, but there was

They allege that the directors, among whom was the desendant Pruyn, are hable, on the ground that they were negligent in not overseeing the transactions of the officers at the bank. The case has been on trial for nearly a week; but yesterday morning counsel for the defence objected to any further proceedings, inasmuch as Judge McCue is a brother-in-law of one of the stockhoniers and the executor of another. This objection was sustained, and the case went off. Judge Kelison will probably take it up at once. SMALLPOX.

INCREASE OF THE DISEASE.

The Board of Health Crippled for Want of Money-Calamitous Effect of the Siekness-Eurrounded on All Sides-Where the Danger Is-The Hospital on the Island.

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

The extraordinary rapid growth of this frightful disease is creating an intense excitement in the public mind, and people anxiously inquire of each other why some efforts are not made by the authoriother why some efforts are not made by the authorities to check its jurifier progress. The disease has attained a strong footbold in the city, although the locality of a large number of cases is known, yet are still a vast amount of sufferers who conceal their real state from the public in the hope of being able to get over the sickness without any publicity. This is an exceedingly dangerous state of things, not only for the people themselves, but for their relatives and all those who may be obliged to come in contact with them during

THE WORST STAGES OF THE DISEASE.
In former years when, smallpox broke out in this city, it almost invariably confined itself to the one or two localities in which it originally started, and was consequently easily confined to the intected districts. The work of checking the increase of the virus was comparatively easy under these circumstances, but this time it has taken a different shape, and instead of limiting itself to one or two districts the epidemic is bursting out all over the metropolis. First a case is reported down town, and the authorities no sooner begin to congrat-ulate themselves upon having the ravager in a thinly populated part of the city than it breaks out with half a dozen cases in the most thickly and overcrowded neighborhoods. The increase last week was larger than it has been for a number of years in New York, and so far as indications go for the present week, it promises to become still greater. LIKE A LEPER this awful disease is breaking out over the entire surface of the city, and no one can seel safe for a single instant from becoming tainted with the powerful poison. It is hanging in the air, and is just as likely to sting the wealthy rolling in their carriages ascertaining the exact extent of the disease at present and to find out what steps were taken to check its further progress a reporter of the HERALD called upon Judge Bosworth, President of the Board of Health, yesterday. That gentleman said:-

Then to try us still further relapsing lever came upon us, but we crushed that like the others. These are the things that have earen up our money and left us witnout funds to combat the severest visitation of all."

"Well, but these contingencies are guarded against, are they not?"

"They will find that out if they do not enable us o act very quickly."
"I understand that the disease is increasing in trooklyn."

"I understand that the disease is increasing in Brooklyn."

"The physicians tell me that Brooklyn is in a frightful state; and Jersey, too. In fact, sir, we are surrounded on all sides by this terrible pestitience. The way it is breaking out here in the city is enough to convince one of that."

"Do you think it has come from Philadelphia!"

"It is hard to say, but I should not be surprised."

"When cases are reported to you do you have them sent to the Smailpox Hospital!"

"No, we do not, if the people are able to keep them at home, and put them at the top of the house or in any other place where they will be away from others."

or in any other place where they will be away from others."

"Do you know anything, Mr. President, about the condition of the Smallpox Hospital at present?"

"I do not exactly know what its condition is, but I am told it is much better now than it was last year."

"It would need be."

"So I have heard. A great many complaints were made about it at that time, but it has since been very much improved, I understand,"

"Has it been made any larger, do you know;"

"I believe so."

"It was originally built for sixty patients, and for a long time last year they had more than a hundred in it?"

in it?"

"So I have heard, but it has been recently enlarged and improved. The means of transit to the Island are also better. Some five or six thousand dollars were spent in fitting up that boat, so that the patients may be carried over comfortably. A good deal of objection was also taken to the ambulances used for carrying the people from their homes, so we had new ones made, in order not to offend the feelings of the poor sufferers."

"The Smallpox Hospital is not under your control?"

"No, sir; it is not."

"The Smallpox Bospital is not under your control?"
"No, sir; it is not,"
"Pon't you think it ought to be?"
"I do, most assuredly; for the reason that, as it is a health institution, it should be under the control of the Health Department. And another great reason is, that when neglect or ill treatment of a patient occurs the public ought to know where to lay the blame,"
"Which they do not now?"
"No, indeed; they do not."
"The system, as it exists at present, is not a very perfect one, you think?"
"Perfect one, you think?"
"Perfect one, you think?"
"Yes, I had a bill introduced asking for power for the Board of Health to raise slow, one to build or buy halks that could be put in convenient places in the river, and to be used as hospitals for contagious "Weil, and what became of your bill?"

diseases."

"Well, and what became of your bill?"

"Well, and what became of your bill?"

"It was passed, but the name of the Board of Health was scratched out and that of the Commissioners of Charifies and Correction substituted. I have a copy of the bill here now, passed exactly as I wrote it, with that exception."

"Have you done anything to raise means to meet the present expediency?"

"Yes, I have seen Mr. Green on the subject: but his hands are fied as well as our own. However, he is going to make every effort in his power to assist us."

"It is rumored, Mr. President, that you have discharged a number of cierks, in obedience to the wish of newly elected politicians. Is that true?"
"No, sir, it is not. One of the papers states that we have discharged tweive cierks, but that is an exaggeration. We have only sent away half that number, and their going had nothing whatever to do with political matters. The order to do with as lew people as possible was given some five or six weeks ago, and the heads of the several bureaus who could spare a man only reported a few days ago that some of the men had been discharged. One was spared from the Street Creaming Department, one from the Fermit Bureau and one, a laborer, from the Laboratory. I forget waste the "It is rumored, Mr. President, that you have dis-

On taking leave of the President the Sanitary Committee was sought. The committee were in sesston and working like beavers. Dr. Stephen Smith was literally buried in a mass of papers, no doubt the statistics on smallpox for many years. There are few men in the city, who know New York better than Dr. Smith, and when an epidemic comes he can read the pulse of the metropoits as easily as he can that of a delicate lady. Mr. Gross was evidently startled out of his usual placid way by the excitement of the moment, and was plainly searching in his mind for some bold measure with which to chain the tiger that has been let loose upon us. Dr. Ceccarini was all movement, and had haif a dozen clerks flying in as many directions
when he was accosted by the reporter.

"Doctor, any news about the smallpox to-day?"
"Yes, indeed, sir, there is, and very bad news."

"What is it, Doctor?"

"What is it, Doctor?"

"Hat it is still increasing. I do not remember the exact number of patients reported to-day, but you saw how terriby they increased last week."

"What are you going to do?"

"I don't know what we shall do if we can't get some money."

"You have applied for it, the President tells me."

"You have applied for it, the President tells me."

"No; they are all poor men, the clerks especially;
and then the dectors we have employed are young men without a practice, and the salurles they get from us are just about sufficient to pay current expenses. So you see, even without the pestilence, we are not in a comfortable position."

"On, well, I leave no doubt you will be able to find the money you want."

"I nope so; not so much for ourselves as the people. If this disease keeps on as it is at present no one can tell where it will stop. You see it all

The steamship Franklin, of the new Baltic Lloyds line, arrived yesterday at Quarantine, with a num ber of cases of cholera on board. The Franklin sailed from Stettin on October 10, touching at Copenhagen on October 12 and Christiansand on the 15th. At the time of leaving the latter port she had twenty-two cabin and 611 steerage passengers and a crew ofsixty-seven men all told.
